A series of exhibits celebrating our most precious resource and the artists who share in the primitive pull towards H2O

Water is a source of continuing fascination – there is an undeniable visceral connection to this literally life giving force. We’ve all seen the stunning beauty water can create, as well as the devastating destruction it can cause. Water centers us, inspires us, and mesmerizes us. It provides recreation, transportation, and economic possibilities. We clean with water, consume water, tend gardens with water, and live by water. This summer the Duluth Art Institute presents a series of four exhibits that show off artists who depict the power, danger, drama and delight that is embodied in water. With weekly enhancement events and daily tours, the Duluth Art Institute is inviting all to dive in and celebrate the refreshing force of water and art in our lives.
